HUMAN BIOSPHERE PROJECT

Do you have executive or management experience?
Are you willing to share your skills with someone who wants to learn?
You're just the person we're looking for!

The Mersey Tobeatic Research Institute Co-operative, in collaboration with the Annapolis Digby Economic Development Agency and the Southwest Nova Biosphere Reserve Association, is compiling an inventory of persons with management and administrative expertise willing to serve as mentors/advisors to new and developing businesses in southwestern Nova Scotia.

Skilled volunteers strengthen and sustain our businesses and communities, and that makes YOU one of our most valuable natural resources!
